Higher Education is available for graduates of secondary education and can be obtained through two Governmental Universities, Bahrain University and Arabian Gulf University and seven Private Universities, and specialized institutes such as College of Health Sciences and Gulf Hospitality & Tourism College

In view of the high concern of the government towards human resource development it is appropriate to supplement this section with a part on training.

A quick glance at educational and training data reveals, in general, the extent at which those two important fields have progressed from year to another.

Noticeably, the numbers of students and trainees enrolled in governmental and private schools as well as training centers are increasing. This underscores the high value attached to education and training by both the government and citizens. In th
